THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 27, 1858. MORMON HYMN BOOK.

A little pamphlet has been placed upon our table bearing the following title: "Select | To be drawn under the Superintendence of Commis Songs for the Latter Day Saints. Composed by William Willes, Great Salt Lake City .-Printed at the office of the Deseret News."-The book, plainly speaking, is a Mormon hymn book, and, it would appear, was composed by its author with no view to publication but baving been seen and approved by the prophets, and the songs it contains having been circulated in manuscript, it was finally deemed advisable to have them published. In this connection we subjoin the author's preface:

"To THE SAINTS :- The following productions having met with favor among the authorities and brethren in this church, induces me to publish them, especially as I am trequently asked tor copies which the pen would not be able to supply. Most of them were written since my arrival in the land of Joseph. WM. WILLES

Whatever faults cavillers may succeed in finding in the composition, their certainly will be none who will doubt the sincerity of the devotion to Brigham and the Elders .-The style of these songs is no more like those of Morris than of Byron or Moore. It is peculiarly the author's own, and if it does not rival the classic beauty of Pope, or the purity of Shelley, the fault must be attributed to his surroundings, and not to a lack of ability in the author. The unpretending genius of Mr. Willes is evinced in the following characteristic lines from a song on pages 10 and 11, entitled the "Apostate's Lament. Tune, Yankee Doodle:"

Meal bags grow empty now, A pretty kind of story; Old Jack Frost has killed my cow, is this the way to glory?

I never knew such awful times-It makes me quite uneasy; For my poor stomach rings the chimes

Because it can't get greasy. I wonder who it is that steals Our wheat and flour and taters;

My blood within my veins congeals To dwell with such vile creatures.

We call special attention to the intense pathos of the second stanza and defy the world to produce an equal. We would quote more largely from this little volume, confident that many of our readers would commend us in so doing but that our space will not justify. The Poet appears to be an old line Whig--strennously advocates home manufactures, and in his advocacy begins with the beginning. We will make one more quotation from a matter of fact song, entitled "Home Manufactures; tune, a Sprig of Shillaleh;" and heartily recommend it to the present head of the Democratic party. After having in his peculiarly poetical vein, shown the adaptedness of the Territory of Utah for manufactures of every description, Mr. Willes thus commences his catalogue of articles, for the manufacture of which the genius of the people is suited.

"The first on the list of our wants I will mention, Are the boys and the girls that most claim our attention,

For building up Zion in these the last days: And these must be raised on the old fashioned

Which Abraham, Isaac and Jacob pursued, To give many women to every good man, And raise up a host from our own mountain brood.

We are aware that we have done the book and the poet injustice in not quoting more extendedly, but as before stated, our crowded, columns must plead our excuse. The glimpses, however, which we have given our readles is duly entitled to a seat on Parnassusthat he is a poet of the first (Mormon) water and under other and more favorable circumstances, would gain a world wide fame .-Copies of these bymns can be purchased at the office of the Deseret News, where we advise all to make immediate application .--- St. Joseph Gazette.

LADIES MARRYING STRANGERS. How common it is, for worthy ladies, widows and single girls, to marry strangers upon a very slight accquaintance! The man may be a base villain, and he may have another wife, but if he have money, is a man of good address, and wears fine clothes, those accomplishments will pass him, while honest men, well raised, and of known integrity, will be sporned. In this country, the basest villains living are admitted into good secrety, if they have money and dress well.

However pale, dreary, and toilsome, a single life may be, an unbappy married life is ten times worse. And these basty marriages with strat gers alone for their wealth, real or imaginary, are ever after full of innumerable regrets-they are a torment from which there is no escape but by death.

Girls, our advice to you is never to barter a life-long happiness for gold or fine clothes. When these are the only ties that bind two persons together, the union cannot be otherwise then onbappy. Avoid all such meu, and such ties, as you would famine and pestilence-death and ruin! "Marry for love and work for riches," is an old and safe maxim Never marry for riches and afterwards work for love. This you will find an up-hill busipess - Brownlow's Whig.

CAPITAL OVER $250,000,
AND CONSTANTLY INCHESING
The charter of this Company offers more in vorable advantages to the farmer and others. than any other company chartered in the State by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the tall amount of the premium in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one. eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay: or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is against loss or damage by fire, on the 16th o March, 1854, since which time over five thou sand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over thirty thousand dollars have been paid for losses-Having trebled our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage flattering prospects of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe that by prudence caution and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a regulation for cheapness and safety, not surpassed by any Company in the U. States. All differences in settlement of losses, may be determined by three disinterested arbitrators of the County where such loss happened to be mintually chosen by the insured and the Company. DIRECTORS
